

Detachable Hangers for Wall Hangings

I have sometimes given someone a wall hanging that could also be used as a table runner or even draped over the back of a couch. To give the recipient those options, I use detachable loops. They are easy to make.

Cut a strip of fabric desired width (I use 1 ½") by desired length. The length is determined by the number of loops you want. If using three, your strip length would be 15" (Or less if you want smaller loops. Just make sure it is easily divisible by the 3 or the number of loops you want.)

Fold fabric in half lengthways, right sides facing and sew along the long side raw edge. Turn the tube right side out and cut into 3 equal lengths.

Fold one of the pieces in half and sew a small bit of Velcro to the non folded end. (I sew the rough piece to the hangers).

Repeat with other sections.

Sew the other side of the Velcro to the top of the quilt, evenly spaced.

Attach hangers to the quilt using the Velcro.

Note: if the quilt is very heavy, the hangers might not hold. Use additional loops or try a button/buttonhole attachment.
